

Design your own fair trade board game.

Have a think about all the different board games you have played. Which were your favourites and why?

In the resources is a Fair Trade version of Snakes and Ladders that you might like to play. Make your way to the finish moving up ladders and down banana skins finding out about Fair Trade on the way.

When you design your game, aim for it to be fun but also use the knowledge that you have picked up over the last couple of days to teach someone about what Fair Trade is and why it is important. It could be a game similar to Snakes and Ladders or Ludo, or a card game like Snap, Pairs, Happy Families or Top Trumps or you might create a brand new type of game. The choice is yours.

Send us your photos of the game or of you playing the game so we can add to the website. You could include instructions to play it or write a review of the game after you have had a go.
