

Joe's Events

- A hissing sound and then the ground changed from a dolphin mosaic to black and white tiling.
- A girl appeared in a pale, long dress and sandals looking like fancy dress.
- She said she lived there, and it wasn't a museum.
- She told me who her family was, including her father who owned the Palace.
- Realised I was wearing a tunic, loose belt and leather sandals.
- I found out her name was Sallustia Lucilia and that her sisters were also called Sallustia.
- Compared St. Christopher to her bulla - Lucy thought I may be a spirit.
- Lucy told me that we would need to hide.
- I found out there were different gardens and that the children can't go in the formal gardens.
- Palace looked like the computer simulation - realised I may have time travelled!
- Low buildings with red tiled roofs, covered cloisters (colonnades) - archaeologists did well!
- Saw the curved roof building which was the baths - females in the mornings and males in the afternoons.
- Saw their dozen horses for travel and questioned how rich they were - realised how many slaves they have - 150.
- Decided to call me Titus Horatius Iovinus and pretend to be Lucy's adopted cousin, because his family is arriving later.
- She informed me that I was talking Latin!
- Met Lucy's mother, by the eastern colonnade, and didn't speak. She believed our lie but thought I was mute.
- Had dinner at the low tables sat on cushions on the floor - quails' eggs, snails, spicy chicken, poached fish, bread, cheese and fruit.
- Tried to return home where the flooring was black and white.